Rupert Inlet

Northwest Vancouver Island

$350,000 Canadian

Homestead property on the tidal waters of Rupert Arm, used by one family for decades under a licence of occupation for a rural residence.

This property reflects a true desire to live a life closer to the land, and offers over an acre of partially forested land to escape from urban life with a full-time homesteading opportunity or make this your recreational getaway!

Rupert Inlet is an arm of Quatsino Sound on the northwest coast of Vancouver Island. This region is well known with boaters and the crabbing and prawning in this area has historically always been excellent. The property is accessed by boat via Coal Harbour or Port Alice, or by forest service road* from Highway 19. The service centre of Port Hardy is 30 minutes away to the north while the nearby communities of Port McNeill and Port Alice also offer shopping and limited health care services.

With 882ft of walk on tidal oceanfront and 1.35 acres, this appealing property is very user friendly. The current home is on a small oceanfront clearing with a lawn and some garden areas near the house. The owner tells us that historically there was a much more cleared lawn area and more extensive landscaping, but mother nature has crept back in over time.

The main residence is a 1344sqft two story one bedroom home which was originally a one story cabin built in 1922 and was rebuilt once in the 1970s before being renovated and having the second story added around 15 years ago. The large primary bedroom is on the top floor, with large windows offering expansive ocean views. Thanks to the due west exposure this is an amazing place to sit and relax as you watch the sunsets over the water, and it is also a great spot for wicked storm watching!

A covered porch and foyer welcome you into the home. The main floor is open living space, with the living room at the back of the home and the dining area and kitchen at the front of the home. A central woodstove provides heating and ambiance for the home. The kitchen has ample cabinetry, a large double sink, an oven and range as well as a Findlay Oval cookstove. Separating the kitchen from the dining area is a large island with a butcher block countertop that matches the other kitchen countertops. A bathroom is in the corner of the home, with a separate toilet room and a bathing room with bath/shower and sink. There is also a laundry/storage room with a washing machine.

The home has beautiful wood flooring throughout. A second covered porch leads into a mudroom by the kitchen, while a glass door leads from the dining area to a partially covered deck the width of the home, which then steps down to a second deck with built in wooden bench seating and steps down to the yard. The front yard is in full afternoon sun thanks to the due west exposure with open views out across the inlet. A great place to spend an afternoon or evening!

A one room cabin sits adjacent to the home, which provides living space and/or sleeping space along with cabinets and a stove for cooking. There is a woodstove for heat.

Behind the home is a workshop and storage shed, and there are two greenhouses in the garden area. The garden includes a large raspberry patch, multiple trees, plants and bushes planted by the family over the years.

Water pulled from a creek is used for washing and bathing. Electricity is provided through an off-grid system that utilizes a micro-hydro turbine as well as a solar panel-battery system and a backup generator. The stove and hot water tank are propane appliances.

Quatsino Sound is one of the last great west coast frontiers easily accessible to the outdoor enthusiast and avid sport-fisherman. The region offers a great variety of activities, such as kayaking and recreational boating, throughout the network of protected inlets and the access to the open west coast. As well there are numerous rivers and lakes abundant with trout, steelhead and spawning salmon in the fall. Seventeen miles to the southwest out Quatsino Sound is the open west coast of Vancouver Island that offers spectacular fishing for salmon, halibut and other species. The marine life and other wildlife in addition to the beauty of the west coast are unsurpassed.

*Forest service roads are considered limited service, as there is no guarantee that the roads will be in usable shape year-round or be regularly maintained.
